

HOW TO USE THE LIBERO TRACKING SHEET

A friendly walk-through for the libero tracker

What is this sheet? The libero (the player in the different-colored jersey) may swap in and out of the back row without a normal substitution – so someone at the score table tracks every swap. That's you! One block per set, one side per team.

FILL IT OUT – 5 QUICK STEPS

- 1. Team & L:. At the top of the block, write the team name and the libero's jersey number next to L:.
- 2. Starting line-up. In the SP (Starting Player) column, copy the six starters' jersey numbers in serving order, positions I through VI – straight off the team's line-up slip.
- 3. Libero goes in. When the libero replaces a player, write L in that player's row.
- 4. Player comes back. When the original player returns, write their number in the same row. Each row reads like a story of that position: number → L → number → L...
- 5. New set, new block. Start the next numbered block (Games 1–5) each set – the starting line-ups usually change.

THE RULES YOU'RE PROTECTING

The libero only plays back row – they may never rotate to the front.

Swaps happen between rallies (after the whistle, before the serve).

A player must play one rally between libero swaps – no instant L-out/L-in for a different player.

See something off? Tell the second referee (R2) right away.

GOLDEN TIPS

Watch jersey colors – the libero is easy to spot, so track the swap the moment it happens.

Keep your eyes on the court between rallies – that's when all the action happens for you.

You've got this! Trackers keep the game fair – the refs are counting on you.
